

Interior Solutions Case Study

After

Subtle style update attracts buyers.

An elegant but dated four bedroom Georgian town house, situated behind Islington's Camden Passage.

Previously the property had been marketed for sale with another agent, but little interest was shown and no offers were made – Hamptons Interior Solutions were contacted and asked to assist with the restyling in order to attract a buyer

The house was full of charm with all the period features that would be expected. However, the general decoration, flooring and light fittings were tired and ultimately letting the property down.

A cosmetic refurbishment plan updated the interior and added style with contemporary fittings and a modern colour palette. Simple changes like spraying the previously cream kitchen door fronts a very light grey to modernise the look achieved impact.

Once complete the property sold within one week for the full asking price.
